PREFACE.

In the three years that have elapsed since the publication of the first edition of our City Directory of Richmond, the growth of the city has been steady, and many important improvements have been added to enhance its beauty and prosperity. Prominent among these are the fine church edifices of the First Methodist and Presbyterian Churches, three elegant school houses, the new City Hall, a splendid system of Water Works, and important street and sewerage improvements. In the matter of population, the city has about held its own, or only slightly increased, which is gratifying when we consider the great business depression that has characterized all manufacturing centers. With its delightful situation, clean and well shaded streets and comfortable dwellings, Richmond offers attractions possessed by few places to those seeking new homes, and with the promising prospects for a better business era, we may reasonably hope that within the next two years our population will pass the 20,000 mark.

In compiling a City Directory, perfect accuracy cannot be hoped for, but we believe this work is as nearly correct as it is possible to make one. We have taken extraordinary pains to make it so. We have diligently hunted up all the changes made since the canvass was completed, and present them, as well as some omissions and corrections, on page 295, to which the reader should turn in looking up a name.

We have continued the plan, first used by us, of inserting the wife's given name following the husband's, which has proven a popular feature in this work. The work also contains a very full classified Business Directory, a list of telephone stations, and an alphabetical list of post offices in Indiana and Ohio, corrected to Sept. 1st.

Hoping this book may please you so well that hereafter you will prefer to patronize Directories issued by "home people," we remain as ever,

Yours in all things that benefit Richmond,
